CANYON COUNTY AT THE STATE FAIR.

Of Canyon County's display at the State Fair, Wednesday's Statesman says:

"Canyon County brought to the fair nearly one-half of its entire exhibit at the Caldwell fair, which was conceded by all to be the best ever collected in that county, the collection occupying two-thirds of the main agricultural pavilion. Among the gems of this collection is the splendid exhibit of apples from the Henry Dor-man orchard, containing some seventy boxes of seventeen different varieties.
One box of unusually large Jonathans from W. A. Hill's collection runs 54 apples to the pack, the usual number being about 70 to the box.

V. D. Hannah of Caldwell has on display a large growing fig tree from which ripe figs have been taken for the past month. The tree is full of fruit in all stages of development.
New Plymouth has some beautiful specimens of apples and a large collection of its famous "Idaho brand" cheese. Roswell has a superior collection of canned fruits and berries and of corn which yielded an average of 85 bushels to the acre on 38 acres.
W. A. George of Caldwell is said to have the finest collection of Bartlett pears at the fair. Emmett sends a large collection also. When it comes to vegetables Canyon county will not take a back seat either. It has on exhibition 14 potatoes which were taken from one hill which weigh fourteen pounds. Caldwell's precinct produced potatoes, 42 of which weighed 100 pounds. Another unique collection is the group of five squash which weigh 370 pounds, the largest weighing 114 pounds. A pumpkin which is almost large enough for Cinderella's coach is from Canyon county also, its weight being 125 pounds. The Caldwell Creamery has a splendid collection of cheese and Lucern butter. The government experiment station which is located near Caldwell, has sent a collection of grains, showing the difference between dry farming and irrigated grains. The entire exhibit is under the supervision of H. D. Andrews and Henry Dorman.

SUGAR FACTORY WINS CASE.
In the criminal case of the State of Idaho against the officials of the Nampa Sugar Factory for violating the state game laws, the jury brought in a verdict for the defendants. It was alleged that the sewerage from the factory so contaminated the water in Mason Creek as to kill the fish. The defense was that Masson creek was not a natural stream but resulted from the irrigation of the country, and consequently did not come within the scope of the law, which makes the contamination of natural streams an offence. The case was prosecuted by Attorney Van Duyn.

Messrs. Smith & Scatterday and Major Young of Salt Lake are attorneys for the defence.

HARRIS MAKES GET AWAY.
Tom Harris, a trusty at the state penitentiary, who was up from Canyon county for three years on a charge of burglary and who had but one more year to serve, made his getaway from the institution at a little before dusk Sunday evening.

Harris was herding sheep on a grazing ground in the hills near the penitentiary and had returned with the flock a little before 6 o'clock, at which time he was seen in the orchard by several of the guards.

The escaped prisoner was a son of James Harris of Downes, Ill., and his description is as follows: Height 5 feet 4½ inches; weight, 126 pounds; hair brown and stiff, front teeth missing; is somewhat stooped and wore when last seen the regulation garb of plain gray of a first-grade prisoner.

The city and county officials have been notified of Harris' escape and four guards were detailed to search for him. Deputy Warden Rich, came down town himself and watched the trains. The city police are well acquainted with Harris and there is little doubt if he comes to town with the intention of getting away either by train or trolley he will be caught.
